Kohama with 400 tons coal came day, and the Salamis for Shanghai on the 22nd.

The well-known ship Yokohama is to load at Sydney for Yokohama. The rates of freight offering for nearly all foreign ports have a downward tendency, and little or no business is being done. One or two medium-sized vessels could be placed for Hongkong, and tonnage is wanted for Galle. The quotations are:—Forein: San Francisco, 8s.; Hongkong, 17s.; Shanghai, 21s.; Yokohama, 15s.; Cebu, Manila, nominal; Batavia, 9s.; Bombay, 18s.; Singapore, 15s.; and Galle, 16s.

The following items are from the Japan Gazette:—The Belgian steamer Perusia, from Whampoa to Callao, has put into this port (Yokohama) to adjust her propeller.

The O. & O. steamer Belgia left San Francisco on the 1st instant, and is expected to arrive on the 21st.

Several Russian men-of-war on this station have long out-served their commission, and the peaceful prospects now fortunately open relieve them from a stay in these waters which has become monotonous and wearisome. The Yanichik, which sailed a few days since, and the Kaydash at present in this port, have both received the welcome "route," and make their way home, by the Suez Canal, through the usual stages.

The following Notice to Mariners is published in last Saturday's Gazette:—Notice is hereby given, that a dangerous rocky patch exists in the fairway into Mira Bay.

The following Magnetic bearings are from

Fung Head, N. 16° W.
South end of Basalt Island, N. 87° W.
East Nineteen Rock and
Nineteen in line,
North-east Head Tanikau, S. 25° W.
This patch, about 40 feet long by 30 feet broad, extends in a North-east direction with 8 fathoms of water on it at low water springs and 15 fathoms close to.

A WRITER in the American Exporter, a trade journal of the United States, recommends, on the authority of the U. S. Consul in Hongkong, the establishment of an American Bank in that port. The experiment might be worth trying. Let them try. An American Bank in Yokohama should be the next enterprise. What say ye, absent Vouillemont and Mammeldorf!—Japan Gazette.

THE U. S. Vice-Consul in charge at Hongkong writes to his Government that the direct trade with Hongkong is mainly for reshipment to other Chinese ports. There is a market for iron of all kinds, lead, quicksilver, ginseng, kerosene, flour and cotton manufactures. The Vice-Consul advises that American merchants open up a profitable iron market by sending out consignments, especially of nail and bar iron. The consumption is very large, and American brands and qualities need only to be known to create a demand for them. American banking facilities in the leading Chinese ports are greatly needed. The establishment of a bank at Hongkong or Shanghai, or both, would greatly advance American trade, by affording merchants quicker returns of invested capital, which now have to go through circuitous European channels.—American Exporter.

DRUNKENNESS.

Matthew Murphy, marine U. S. S. Ranger, was fined 50 cents for the above offence.

STABBING CASE ON BOARD-SHIP.

Richard Doherty, seaman American ship S. R. Mead, was charged with stabbing the Chief Officer, Mr. John Meese.

Complainant deposed:—The defendant was shipped at Yokohama about 3 months and a half back. At about 6 a.m. this day, the defendant and other seamen were hoisting the deck aft. I was on deck and I noticed that the defendant had been rubbing at one particular place for some time and was sitting down. I heard the 2nd officer tell the defendant quietly to get out of that, as he had been sitting down at that place long enough. The defendant got up muttering something, and then sat down alongside other men and began talking. I said, "Shut up, and go on with your work, don't prevent others working." The defendant said he would not shut up, and there was no one on board who could make him. The Captain hearing this came on deck, and asked what was the matter. I told the Captain what had occurred, and then took hold of the defendant in order to make him go to work at another place, when he grappled me, and we both rolled over once or twice in the sand with which we had been scrubbing. Whilst in this position I noticed that the defendant had an open sheath knife in his hand, and I called out to the 2nd officer, who took it from the defendant's hand, but not before he had inflicted a slight wound on the right side of my back.

By Defendant:—I did not strike you on the head with the piece of holystone now in Court.

Charles Dixon, the master, gave corroborative evidence. He deposed that he told the defendant and the mate to stand up and have a fair fight.

Defendant said that he had a quarrel with the second officer about the work, and the chief mate said he would make him (defendant) work and strike him in the nose. They then closed, the chief mate struck him on the back of the head with a stone, whereupon he (defendant) drew a knife in self-defence.

Christian Thompson and Richard Geo. corroborated defendant's statement with regard to the chief mate having struck the first blow.

Two months' hard labour.

CRIMINAL CASES.

Lo Ahai and Wong A-po, hawkers, were charged with selling spirits to commoners on board the Spanish steamer Zamboanga, without a license.

Captain Argenteau deposed that, in consequence of what he heard, he went to the forecastle and found one of the crew in possession of a square bottle of bad spirits. He noticed the defendants in a stateroom alongside of the ship. Messrs J. M. and P. E. Emanuel were on board the Zamboanga, and the former got into his steam launch and chased the defendants' boat, but in consequence of the boat dodging about he could not catch it. Mr. P. E.

Emanuel then got into a sampan, gave chase, and intercepted the defendants, who were subsequently handed over to the police.

Mr. J. M. Emanuel deposed that he was the proprietor of the Cosmopolitan Dock. Whilst passing the S. S. Zamboanga this morning in his steam-launch he, by the aid of his telescope, observed the defendants pass a square bottle on board the steamer. Witness went on board the Zamboanga and related to the Captain what he had seen, and the bottle was found in the forecastle. It contained samshoo. Witness chased the defendants, and after some trouble he, with the assistance of another boat, succeeded in capturing them. One of the defendants jumped overboard and tried to escape. Defendants stated that they were asked to go on shore and buy some spirits and they did so. They denied having the spirits in the boat. One of the seamen of the Zamboanga disproved this statement, and defendants were sent to Gaol for six months with hard labour, in default of a fine of $200.

HAWKERS.

Chun Ahai, no licence. Fined 10 cents.
Kwan Ahai, hawking salt fish in the streets. Fined 25 cents.
Hong Acheung, hawking ducks in the streets. Fined 20 cents.

FIGHTING.

Lau Anzo, a hawker, and Wong Ahai, a cook, fighting in the streets; 2nd defendant having a stone in his hand, with which he was beating his friend. 1st defendant fined 50 cents, 2nd fined $1.

Amoy.

We are given to understand that 3,400 piculs of coal, 7 piculs of copper and 49.78 piculs of iron have been saved by the natives of South Formosa (Kwa Lenag Bay) from the wreck of the late ship Forest Belle and handed over to the authorities for adjustment and distribution. The adjudication is to be made by the Tactal and Consul according to American Admiralty principles. This is certainly an improvement on the old-fashioned manner of dealing with wrecks by the people of South Formosa, and gives promise of a better state of affairs in future.

The German brig Carl Ludwig which left the harbour yesterday morning (Aug. 13) with a cargo of sugar for Tientsin, was stranded on Marina reef (Six Islands), the water being low, where she remained stationary. Fortunately there was no wind at the time, otherwise the danger would have been greater. Captain Luitpold kindly placed his gun-boat Che-an, at the disposal of the German Consul, and proceeded with Mr. Bismarck to the scene of the disaster, and the Che-an returned to Port in the evening with the stranded vessel in tow, the tide having arisen sufficiently to float her off. We understand that the Carl Ludwig is to go into dock to be surveyed and repaired.

Last Freight Settlements.—Nadeshda, 4,500 piculs, hence to Tientsin and back, via Newchwang, 28 lay days, $2,250.
Augusta Reimers, 4,700 piculs, same voyage, 30 lay days, $2,350.

Carl Ludwig, 5,000 piculs, same voyage, 80 lay days, $2,600.

Friedrich Perthes, 3,500 piculs, to Tientsin, 13 lay days, $1,900.

Gothenburg, 4,400 piculs, Cebu and back, $1,000, or Newchwang and back 22 lay days, $1,400.

A Correspondent writes:—Robberies here have been very numerous of late. The latest was a remarkably bold attempt to rob a house without committing burglary. A gentleman the other evening, while performing on his pia o, happened to look behind him when he saw a long bamboo pole, on the end of which was a hook, and this hook was manœuvring to pick up a watch on a table. The implement had been thrust through the window blinds. It was dropped by the manipulator, who being fleet of foot made good his escape.—N. C. D. News.

FOOCHOW.

(Herald, Aug. 8th.)

The Chinese corvette Xang Woo is now moored alongside the Arsenal wharf at Amoi. Her guns and topmasts have, we hear, been removed—as a preliminary to a thorough overhauling on the patent slip of that establishment.

Up to yesterday afternoon all was quiet on the English Church Mission premises at Wu-shih-shan. But we understand that the enlightened gentry and so-called literati in and about the city are still industriously engaged in secretly plotting the destruction of the obnoxious building.

Owing to the distress in the North, the Canton Guild have, we understand, decided to forego the customary midsummer "Sing-Song" at hear, in compliance with the expressed wishes of the local officials, who profess aversion to public entertainments in time of national trouble like the present.

The S. S. Europe arrived 3rd instant, from Shanghai, and reports having met with very heavy weather on the passage, in consequence of which it became necessary to lighten the vessel by throwing some of her deck cargo overboard. She also ran down a whale, the blades of the screw propeller absolutely cutting the monster in two. This incident caused some excitement on board, the first impression being that the vessel had struck a rock.

The heat at Shanghai has, we hear, been very oppressive, and several cases of sunstroke are reported. Old residents in the Model Settlement declare the present to be the hottest summer experienced for many years past. At Tientsin it has also been exceptionally hot, the thermometer ranging from 96° to 108° in the shade.

The following communication from Her Britannic Majesty's Consul, in reference to the Wu-shih-shan disturbances alluded to in our last issue, has been received:—

British Consulate,

Foochow, 8th August, 1878.
Her Majesty's Consul presents his compliments to the Editor of the Foochow Herald, and begs leave at once to correct the statements made in the Herald of Thursday the 1st instant, with reference to the Mission premises, that at least one high Chinese official has given his consent to this meditated outrage.

The truth is, that the Chinese authorities, high and low, have on the contrary been making every effort to calm popular irritation and to maintain the peace.

It is regrettable that persons, when furnishing the Editor with items of news, do not in the first place make sure of the truth of their statements, since they help to circulate false reports calculated to disturb the public mind, and to convey abroad erroneous impressions.

The Herald, in an article on the Wu-shih-shan Difficulty, "vindicates the position it has taken up, and reasserts that the action or inaction of the native authorities clearly bears out its statements." It says:—"That at least one high Chinese official has allowed his name to be used in connection with the disgraceful proceedings under notice has been made so clear to our mind that we feel not the slightest hesitation in re-affirming our previous statement. The name of this official, and the circumstances under which the information concerning him were obtained, are, as already stated, withheld from our readers, for obvious reasons—the soundness of which will no doubt be fully understood."—Ed. SHANGHAI.

(News.)

The wrecked ship Harlow, together with her cargo of 1,100 tons of Wollongong coal, as she now lies on the North Bank, was yesterday sold by public auction, by Mr. E. W. Rice, for Tls. 65. It is said that Chinese have already stripped the wreck of everything they could get at, and no doubt this to a certain extent had the effect of lowering the price.

Captain Wolcott, commanding the P. & O. str. Polina, has kindly supplied us with a description of the typhoon he encountered during the passage from Hongkong. It is as follows:—At 0.30 a.m. on the 8th, we passed Turnabout with the wind fresh from N. and by E., but no indication of a typhoon. From that time until noon we passed several ships running with their fore and main sails set. At noon, finding the barometer going down slightly, and heavy rollers coming in from the eastward, causing ship to roll heavily, I headed her out to the eastward, eased the engines to dead slow, and waited for a change of wind, which would have indicated whether the storm was to the North or South, but it remained steady from the same quarter. I now furled all awnings, battened down the hatchways, and prepared the ship for the worst. At 2 p.m. it blew a hard gale from N. and by E., which increased up to 7 p.m., when it blew a perfect hurricane, with furious gusts and very confused sea. At 6 o'clock both the wind and sea decreased in violence. At 9 o'clock the wind fell light and hauled round to the S. by E., and continued light until midnight, when an sudden and heavy gale came from the S.W.W., accompanied with lightning and spray, causing the ship to lay over on her port side at an angle of 35°. At 0.15 a.m. on the 9th, the main boat was washed clean away from the davits, and was by another sea washed half-way up the mizen rigging and landed on the quarter-deck. In the morning her anchor and chain were found on the top of the foremast davit, it having fallen out of her when up in the rigging. At the same time the gig was crushed against the davits, and the port cutter, although at the davit heads, was in a heavy lurch to port, filled, and had her bows torn open. The typhoon was at this time raging with terrific force, and the sea washing clean over the ship, she being quite at the mercy of the elements. Towards daylight the weather cleared up, but continued to blow a hard gale from the S.W. Examined ship fore and aft, and found a considerable quantity of water in the second class accommodation, and also in the purser's store on the port side. The lowest reading of the barometer was 28.64.

We are informed that Yang Yeh-lin, the actor who was so terribly tortured a few years ago for marrying a Mandarin's daughter, visited Shanghai during the present week, and advertised his willingness to accept an engagement to perform at one of the native theatres. This coming to the knowledge of the authorities, the unfortunate actor was again seized and thrown into prison. It is said that a foreigner, commiserating the poor fellow's position, managed, by becoming security, to procure his release, but only on the understanding that he would never be permitted to pursue his calling in Shanghai, and that he should instantly depart.

It is with regret that we have to record the death of another old resident of Shanghai, Mr. A. H. de Carvalho, the Acting Consul-General for Portugal. Deceased, who we believe had been ailing for some time, died at half-past three o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the sixty-second year of his age. He was one of the oldest residents, having arrived in Shanghai in the year 1857, commencing his career as printing manager of the N. C. Herald office. Deceased's obsequies will, we understand, be marked with more than usual solemnity. A requiem mass will be celebrated at eight o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's Cathedral, and the funeral procession will leave the Cathedral at six o'clock in the evening.

We hear that the two new steamers which have been built in England for the China Coast Steam Navigation Company—the Shan-lee and Dona Isabel—have left for Shanghai, the former on the 1st inst., and the latter on the 7th. The Shan-lee is said to be somewhat similar to the Sir Yangsang, but with rather more beam, and more elaborately fitted. It is expected her accommodation for saloon passengers will be a great improvement, while her speed is represented to be superior to that of any other steamer at present on the Northern line.

The water mark at Hankow, when the Xianghsan left on the 7th inst., was over 49 feet, and the water was still rising. The destruction caused by the floods is described as being very great. The foreign Settlement of Hankow is submerged, and with one exception the lower rooms of the houses and houses are flooded, and are uninhabitable in the upper storeys; while sampans and cargo boats navigate the Bund and streets. The flat outlying country is under as far as eye can reach on either side of the river from Hankow down to Wuhu, and the prospect is of a vast sea—marked contrast, indeed, to what it is in the season of the year when some of the steamers cannot proceed higher than Kiangkiang. The damage to the crops can be better imagined than described. It is thought the water has now reached its greatest height, and it is only to be hoped that it will subside quietly, to enable a second crop to be sown and garnered.

Japan.

(Gazette.)

The case of the emigrants who were to have left for Callao was not yet decided in a day or two, and we believe the claim of the agents against the Japanese Government is likely to be a large one.

None of these intending emigrants who had entered into a contract to proceed to Peru and remain for a definite period have left by the Russian steamer. Five Japanese emigrants took passage without entering into a contract, and of these, three went away yesterday morning, the other two remaining in connection with the forthcoming suit in the Tokio Saiban-sho.

(Mail.)

The Russian barque Rurik, which, as we remarked last week, was detained on account of diplomatic trouble having arisen, regarding the transport of Japanese emigrants to Peru, has left the port. One Japanese passenger only went in her—a gentleman travelling for his pleasure, and paying his own passage. The men under contract to the representative of a German firm there have been compelled by the native Government to break their contracts, and their expenses during detention having been paid for them, have now been dismissed to their homes, with a bonus of $10 each presented to them by their paternal rulers. The question of compensation to the German merchant remains for decision, and we may have to refrain from further comment for the present, as it looks as if it would come sub judice.

THE LOSS OF THE GERMAN BARQUE "EMMA."

The following is a portion of the evidence taken before the Court of Enquiry at Amoy:—

J. J. Jorkelson, Master of British barque The Goolwa, examined:—At midnight on the 1st August, the weather was very dark and misty with drizzling rain and occasional squalls. I took ship and stood for the S.W. wind about 8 S.E. with heavy squalls, up to 3 S.E. I heard a noise on deck, and jumped upon deck. I found the ship was kept off for a fishing junk that had no lights up, and we passed within half a cable's length from her. I then cautioned the mate, saying as I had done previously that night, to keep a sharp look out and told him to haul down top gallant and royal stay sails. I then went below again. At about 1 past 3 I heard a noise and ran on deck. I was met in the companion hatch by the eldest apprentice that had run down to call me. I felt a shock before I got on deck. I immediately ran forward and saw our jibboom and bowsprit over another ship's deck. I could not make out what rig she was at the time. I told the starboard watch to back the main yard and the port watch to let go jib halliards, fore royal and top sail halliards were let go by the run. I then went to the other vessel to cut away our gear, but received no answer from her. I went with our carpenter and got hold of axes and choppers, gave them to my mates and told them to cut away everything forward, and sent the carpenter to sound the pumps and say by the pumps and let me know how deeply she began to sink. I then went forward again and I ran against some Chinamen, passengers belonging to the vessel that we collided with. I went on top of the top gallant forecastle and called out to the vessel to assist us to get clear. I received no answer, when I sang out again, "Is there no Master on board that vessel?" I again asked him to assist us to separate the vessels; the reply I got was "You won't leave us, we are making water." I replied "How can you think it possible for me to do such a thing? Only assist us to get clear and I will send you boats." Then I heard the Captain say in Danish to somebody:—"Never mind that, go and pack up. I will let you know before there's any danger." The Master of that vessel said something about a ledge, but my Mate got the order to drop the keedge over the stern previous to that. Our head gear had been cut and a strain came on the keedge rope, when the two vessels parted. I then fled in vain and slipped the catch rope until my vessel was a safe distance from the other vessel. I then hove our main yard aback and sent the life-boat with four hands to the assistance of the other vessel, which proved to be the German barque Emma. About 5 a.m. the Capt. and the crew left the Emma. As soon as he had come on board The Goolwa I asked him "Are you sure there is nobody left on board the Emma?" He said, "No, all her men were on board my ship," and the supercargo also said that all the passengers were saved. The Emma shortly after filled and sunk. I then examined the damage done to my ship, found all the head gear gone, cat head whiskers, forecastle-rail carried away, stem split, out-water knocked on one side; as I could not ascertain the extent of the damage under water, and the weather looking very threatening, I considered for the safety of the ship and cargo and all concerned to proceed into the nearest port; the ship being unmanageable without head-sails I shaped a course for Amoy, where I arrived on the 2nd at 4 a.m.

I turned in at 1 a.m. leaving the deck in charge of the 1st Officer. Weather dark and misty with drizzling rain. About half-past 21 hours on deck. I considered the chief officer was a cautious man. When summoned on deck the first time I did not consider it necessary to remain. The bell is struck as a signal when the lights require trimming. It was not necessary to use a fog horn, it being sufficiently light to enable me to clear any vessel, properly lighted. Was close hauled on port tack at time of collision.

Edward Northcote, 1st Mate, examined:—I came on deck on the night of the 1st Aug. to tack ship with all hands at midnight. After the Capt. had put the ship about I completed trimming all sail and sent the starboard watch below. I then went aft to relieve the 2nd Mate, and received my orders from the Capt. before he went below. He told me to be particularly careful about the look-out, as there were several junks about and the night was very dark. He also told me to let him know if any change occurred in the weather. After he went below I went forward to ascertain who had the look-out, and to tell him to be very careful to keep a sharp look-out. About 3 o'clock he reported a junk right ahead. I had no light and I had only just time to keep the ship off to clear him. About 3 o'clock I passed another one in a similar manner, both of them being reported by the man on the look-out. About half-past three I was standing aft on the lee side of the poop, looking forward to see if I could see anything, and after standing there a minute or two I thought I could make out some dark object on the lee bow; we were braced sharp up at the time on the port tack. I immediately ran forward and saw some object under sail, but not having any lights I could not tell which tack she was on. I immediately ordered the helm to be put hard up and the gaff top-sail to be hauled down, both of which orders were executed at once. The wind was very light at the time with drizzling rain and misty and a heavy southerly swell. About a minute and a half after my first sighting the vessel the two vessels collided. After I had sighted the second junk I again went forward to caution the look-out, and he appeared to be using all due care to keep a sharp look-out. After half an hour the order to put the helm hard up I asked the look-out if he could not see the object; his reply was, "Flow can I see her, Sir, when she has no lights and the weather is so thick?" Another member of the watch Wm. Hill was standing by me when I saw the object from forward; he also exclaimed "she has no lights," and if it is a junk "it is a very big one."

Captain H. J. Grad, master of the Emma, examined:—We left Amoy on the 31st July at 3 a.m. with harbour and sea pilot on board. About 9 a.m. we had to anchor for calms and light winds. In the afternoon about 1 p.m. we weighed again and stood out to sea: about 3 or 3.30 p.m. the sea pilot left us off Chai-chai rock. We had bearing of land till dark and after we had Chapel Island light in sight. We had it in sight again, till a little after 3 o'clock of the morning of the 1st we saw it last. The ship was going about S.E. by E. on starboard tack about 7½ knots an hour. At 8 o'clock we calculated to be about 17 miles off Chapel Island and it bore S. W. by W. At about 1 past 3 we saw a green light on our port bow, and about E. by S. We kept the ship on a wind as before till the light came nearer and we saw a sailing ship. When the vessel came close to us we could see that if she didn't bear off we could not clear each other. The other ship was bearing W. by S. by my calculation. When we saw we could not clear we put our helm hard a port and she came up to about S.S.E. The other vessel struck us right amidships. The jibboom was broken and fell down on our deck. Our foreyard broke, fore top gallant mast broke, fore top gallant yard came down. We halted the ship and asked what ship it was and got no answer till the Mate had sung out several times, and in about 15 minutes got an answer that it was "an Irish ship." At first when we struck there was nobody to be seen in the British ship, but after a while they came out away the head gear. We all tried what we could to cut away and get the jibboom adrift. By globe lamp we found out what was the ship's name. After some time I asked the ship's Captain myself about the ship's name. He gave me the answer "Never mind the ship's name, let's get the ships clear. I shan't leave you till I see you are all right." The ship was then working with the ship's anchor and outboard and our bulwarks, and the outwater was cutting away the covering board and outside planking. At about 1 past four o'clock all the stanchions and bulwarks were cut away. The chain plates for main-rigging had all carried away. There was one topmast backstay, one gallant and royal backstay, we cut them away in the hope the other ship would go clear of us. The other ship was now working from our fore rigging to the poop and cleared away everything knocked down the bulwarks and cabin decks. I advised the Captain to let go an anchor and after a while the ships got clear of each other. We managed to get two boats overboard and a boat from the other ship was sent to our assistance. The ship had sunk very far down already; we saw it would not come up before she would sink. We sent one of our boats over first with some private effects, chronometers; the boat came back again. When the ship was very near sinking down by the bow we left, with our boats and went to The Goolwa; after being a few minutes alongside The Goolwa the ship sunk.

By the Court:—Was on the after deck at the time of the collision. The other ship was about 1 mile to 1½ mile when first seen. About ½ of an hour elapsed between the time when they first saw The Goolwa and the collision. Had lights burning, called the Mate's attention to the fact that immediately after the collision the red light was burning. Cannot swear that the light was burning previous to the collision. Did not see the light of other ship till she was close to. Light was not reported when first sighted. Went on deck because heard a noise and on the way on deck was told: At the same time heard the order given to put the helm down. (Capt. of The Goolwa stated in evidence that when the Capt. of the Emma was requested to assist to clear the ship he told the men on board the Emma to go and pack up, he would let them know when there was any danger.) This statement is denied. The well was sounded and from a large hole in the ship's side, she seemed to be sinking. Half an hour previous to collision had been on deck and seen his own lights burning brightly.

By Defendant:—Lamp screens were hung on davits alongside of the cabin. Carried three boats, one on davits on port side. Forefoot of this boat's davits is a little below the lamp davit, the after one is close to after part of the house. By Court:—The boat was considerably above the lamp. The lights were about 6 feet from the main deck.—Amoy Gazette. [It will be remembered that the decision of the Naval Court was to the effect that the Captain of The Goolwa was entirely without blame in the matter of the collision.—Ed. C. M.]

Australian News.

By the arrival of the E. M. steamer Brisbane, Captain Reddell, we have Sydney papers to the 25th July, but our Cocktown files have not come to hand.

London, July 24.—The banquet to the Australian team yesterday was a great success. 200 gentlemen were present.

London, July 24.—The banquet to the Australian team of cricketers took place yesterday, at Willie's Rooms. The Duke of Manchester presided, and eulogised the pluck of the Australians in coming half round the world. Mr. David Gregory (captain of the team), in responding, said they had never hoped to beat the flower of English cricket, and were gratified at the success already attained.

London, July 20.—The Board of Inquiry in Germany which investigated the circumstances attending the loss of the ironclad Grosser Kurfurst, by collision with the ironclad König Wilhelm in the English Channel, throws the whole blame on the helmsman of the latter vessel.

Adelaide, July 24.—A telegram from Fremantle reports heavy gales on the coast of Western Australia for some days. A vessel supposed to be the barque James Service has been totally wrecked on Murray Reef, forty miles south of Fremantle. Passengers' luggage and cases of cargo oil have been thrown ashore, but there is no trace of the passengers or crew. The James Service was from Calcutta, bound to Melbourne, and consigned to Messrs. Boyd and Currie. She had a cargo consisting of 1000 bales of wool, 3000 cases of corn oil, and 60
